

Alignment of Components

As a campus administrator, take into account the ELPS Cross-Curricular student expectations and the PLDs when overseeing the planning of content-based instruction. Activities and materials used in a lesson must correlate to students' current levels of proficiency and the ELPS student expectations.

The ELPS Linguistic Instructional Alignment Guide is a resource for lesson planning. Providing this tool to teachers of ELLs and guiding them through the practice of designing instruction is necessary for instruction that is commensurate to linguistic need.
