

Art: High School Reflection Activity

You have the courage to try something new and to revise something comfortable. As you reach out past your comfort zones as an artist, what are some areas you feel you can stretch and push beyond when nurturing each student's artistic voice?

